

1H//780102(039)

Europe's Last Frontier?

Belarus, Moldova, and Ukraine between Russia and the European Union

Edited by Oliver Schmidtke and Serhy Yekelchuk

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Contributors	ix
Introduction	1
Oliver Schmidtke and Serhy Yekelchyk
1	Out of Russia's Long Shadow: The Making of Modern Ukraine, Belarus, and Moldova Serhy Yekelchyk	9
2	From Soviet Ukraine to the Orange Revolution: European Security Relations and the Ukrainian Identity Natalie Mychajlyszyn	31
3	Belarus in the Lukashenka Era: National Identity and Relations with Russia Per Anders Rudling	55
4	Post-Soviet Moldova's National Identity and Foreign Policy Steven D. Roper	79
5	The Donbas—The Last Frontier of Europe? Hiroaki Kuromiya	97
6	In the Minority in Moldova: (Dis)Empowerment through Territorial Conflict Hülya Demirdirek	115
7	The Promise of Europe: Moldova and the Process of Europeanization Oliver Schmidtke and Constantin Chira-Pascanut	133

vi CONTENTS

8	Taking Ukraine Seriously: Western and Russian Responses to the Orange Revolution Derek Fraser	157
9	The Failed Revolution: Reflections on the 2006 Elections in Belarus David R. Marples	175
10	EU-Russia Relations and the Repercussions on the “In-Betweens” Stefan Gänzle	195
	Selected Bibliography	231
	Index	245