

1W/536131(039)

HUMAN RIGHTS AND DEVELOPMENT IN THE NEW MILLENNIUM

TOWARDS A THEORY OF CHANGE

Edited by PAUL GREADY AND WOUTER VANDENHOLE

 cost

EUROPEAN COOPERATION IN SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

ROUTLEDGE

CONTENTS

Contributors' biographies	viii
1 What are we trying to change? Theories of change in development and human rights P. Gready with W. Vandenhole	1
PART I
Approaches	27
2 The drivers of human rights change in development H.-O. Sano	29
3 Human rights indicators and MDG indicators: building a common language for human rights and development organizations G. de Béco	50
4 Means, modes and methods: donor support strategies for child rights in Kenya A. Tostensen, H. Stokke and S. Trygged	70
5 Legal empowerment of the poor – a strategy for social change? B. A. Andreassen	90

PART II
Organisational contexts		107
6	Overcoming the promotion–protection dichotomy: human rights-based approaches to development and organisational change within the UN at country level W. Vandenhole	109
7	EU development cooperation: the contours of global and national engagement M. van Reisen and D. Mekonnen	131
8	Countering violence against children in the Philippines: positive RBA practice examples from Plan K. Arts	149
9	ActionAid’s human rights-based approach and its impact on organisational and operational change P. Gready	177
PART III
Country contexts		193
10	Standardised practice – from international labour standards to development practice H. Stokke	195
11	Skimming the surface: human rights-related donor interventions in the Bas-Congo K. De Feyter and R. Lumbika Nlandu	213
12	A change of road for the rights-based approach? A reflection on piloting a health-enabling mobile technology programme in KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa S. Porter	235
13	The Ethiopian law governing civil society organizations: divorcing human rights and development? S. Alemahu Yeshanew	253

14	Some cross-cutting issues and their policy implications W. Vandenhole, C. Lennox, P. Gready and H. Stokke	272
	Index	301